Suggestions for international passengers

Transfer by flights

For international passengers without direct flights to Xi'an, we suggest transferring at Hong Kong, Beijing, Shanghai, Guangzhou, etc. There are many flights with 1-4 hours from these cities to Xi'an every day.

Transfer by high-speed railway

You can also take high-speed (bullet) trains after your continental flights as another option to get in Xi'an. Beijing, Nanjing and Wuhan, etc., are suggested as the transfer cities. There are many trains to Xi'an from these cities with only 5 hours traveling. The trains are clean and if you take a business class it is like the business class in continental flights. It takes a little bit longer time than flights, but there will be a good experience to see the country.
